

Eric Viaud, Chief Executive Officer and Co-Founder, Gene Signal

Eric is co-founder and current CEO of Gene Signal. His leadership has successfully brought the company from the drug discovery phase to the end of clinical development of its first product. Eric has a track record as a successful biotech entrepreneur, having successfully overseen and led the development of multiple biotech start-up ventures. He is currently an advisor and board member of several biotech companies in Europe. Eric has more than 20 years experience in the pharmaceutical and medical devices industries. He has held senior management positions in the field of Licensing, Strategic Alliances, Sales & Marketing and R&D at companies including Lederle Cyanamid, Astra Zeneca, BASF, Synthelabo, Medtronic. He also has extensive experience in the regulatory & reimbursement fields. Eric holds a Masters in psychology from the University of Bordeaux (France).